The Wrong Head: 4 Men
100 Collages

collages by Xtian, Tim Harris, Mat Blackwell and Dan Kelly

as exhibited at 69 Smith St Gallery
Feb5 - Feb 23, 2014

introduction

These images were originally displayed in “The Wrong Head : 4 Artists 100 Collages” exhibition at 69 Smith Street Gallery, in 2014.

They are the discharges of the brains and fingers of four dubious malcontents going by the name of Xtian, Tim Harris, Mat Blackwell and even Dan Kelly.

These images are damn fine. They may cause giggles or revulsion or both.

Either way, they’re damn fine.

XTIAN

A fine fellow who's been making collages since he was 7 or 8 years old.
He does it because he doesn't know how not to do it - nor does he care to find out.
He also dabbles in creating music and very short films, as well as comics, paintings, etc, etc, but mostly he's your "goto man" for collages.

TIM HARRIS

Tim Harris has been arting it up since 1977 - that makes him an old punk.
He was part of the Canberra/ Sydney fringe scene throughout the 80s, was shortlisted for an Archibald, was a writer of funny stuff for TV and unfunny stuff for newspapers.
Now he makes swords and uses them, which makes him
a dangerous old punk.

MAT BLACKWELL

Mat Blackwell is an art-vandal who believes collage is a legitimate creative endeavour. He is also an award-winning screenwriter, a wannabe author, and part-time chaos-musician. He is the reclusive troglodyte behind the musical projects 'HAARK', 'The Horn', 'GRIST', 'Stinky Picnic', 'Merge Into Stripes', 'GNAUMGN', 'A Cluster of Fungus', and many others, both current and defunct. He has too many cats and not enough beard. He may or may not be involved with the shadowy Anti-Reptilian Resistance Group 'The IWML'.
